ATLANTA, April 14, 2021 /PRNewswire/ -- With spring in full swing, there's no better time to organize at home. Rubbermaid® Incorporated, the maker of innovative, solution-based food storage and organization products, is partnering with stylist and interior designer Emily Henderson to show people how outer order at home can lead to inner calm, with the help of Rubbermaid Brilliance® Pantry containers. To help make home feel a little more peaceful, one of the top places Henderson recommends tackling is the often-overlooked pantry.

"A perfectly organized pantry doesn't just make life more efficient – it also makes you feel better, knowing your space is in order and you have something beautiful to look at inside the kitchen," said Henderson. "No matter your pantry's quirks, size and shape, I've found that Rubbermaid Brilliance Pantry containers make it easy to store and organize pantry essentials like rice, pasta and flour, thanks to its stackable design!"

Henderson offers the following tips to achieve a beautifully organized pantry:

- Buy in bulk: This saves on packaging waste and offers a better glimpse of what foods you have and how much – and prevents a last-minute run to the store for a missing ingredient mid-meal.
- Decant: Decanting means moving pantry staples from their original packaging into a different container like Brilliance Pantry, usually a clear and labeled one. Being able to see what and how much is inside, knowing where containers are, and making them easy to grab not only looks good but also makes cooking, packing lunches and baking more efficient.

- Create a hierarchy: Keep snacks like pretzels, cookies, and bars at a lower height, as it's easier to reach. Everyday cooking items like rice, pasta and dry beans should be placed a bit higher, followed by baking ingredients – and anything else used less often – up top. Whether the pantry is big or small, Brilliance Pantry containers come in a variety of sizes to store and organize any amount of food.
- Adapt to your space: If you keep a system, it doesn't matter if you have a walk-in pantry or only a few shelves to work with. Choose containers like Brilliance Pantry that are modular and stackable to maximize vertical space, then designate sections for certain tasks.

"After a year of increased time at home, now is a good time to refresh spaces and make them more enjoyable as well as functional," said Kris Malkoski, CEO, Food Business Unit at Newell Brands. "With Rubbermaid Brilliance Pantry containers, we hope people can feel calmer in even the smallest of areas, like a pantry. We're excited to offer our organizational experience and proven product solutions along with Emily Henderson's expertise, and show simple ways to make this important part of the home a more inviting space."
